

March 11, 2004

In 1998 I watched 17 young boys become the Penguins under Igor Mrotchek and Sergei Starikov. They struggled at first, losing early and often. However, with steady improvements both on and off the ice during the year, they grew into champions at Lake Placid by seasons end.

If your child wants to work, improve and learn about what it takes to become successful in sports and in life. Then Igor Mrotchek, Sergei Starikov and the penguins are the right program for you.

Alumni, Casey Ftorek's dad
Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Robbie Ftorek', is written over the printed name below.

Robbie Ftorek